ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

TRUSTEES

OF THE

NEW YORK SOCIETY LIBRARY.

The present Trustees of the New York Society Library cannot this year present so favorable a Report of the improvement and advance of the excellent Institution under their care as they and their predecessors in office have happily been able to do for several successive years past. This Institution could not escape from sharing some of the effects of the disturbed condition of public affairs felt by our citizens generally. Its income has been reduced by the diminution of rents and by difficulties, delays, and losses in the collection of annual dues of its shareholders; thus abridging the usual income of the last few years about one-fifth. The number of new members by purchase of shares from this Corporation was less than it has been for some years. In consequence, the expenditures for the purchase of books were necessarily reduced in a still greater degree, as the salaries and other expenses of the establishment remained the same.

From the same cause, the printing and publication of a new or a supplemental catalogue, now much needed, and for which the materials are nearly in readiness, were postponed.

Still, these checks on the advance of the Institution are not serious and can be but temporary, nor have they lessened its present value and usefulness, nor do they impair its future prospects. Its spacious, convenient and handsome building and valuable Library remain wholly unencumbered by debt. The Library now numbers about 50,000 volumes, including many rare and costly works. The Reading Room has continued to be supplied, not only with many American and foreign newspapers, but with the best literary and scientific periodical publications of America, England, France and Germany; all of which, at the end of the year, are transferred to the shelves of the Library. It is also a gratifying circumstance, attesting the utility and value of the Institution, that during the present year the Library has been much consulted for reference and instruction, by persons not shareholders, and that the number of volumes circulated from the Library among shareholders and their families was greater than in any previous year.

Thus the New York Society Library, one of the oldest literary associations of our city, has continued in a year of gloom to hold on its steady and unostentatious course of utility, as it had done through many years of alternate prosperity and adversity. Thus it commends itself strongly to the liberal patronage of our citizens, which it is trusted it will receive more amply in future and more auspicious, but it is hoped, not very distant days.
Donations of Books to the number of 126 volumes have been received, for which the Library is principally indebted to the following donors:

The smaller of the rooms, which were leased to the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, known as the "Trustees' Room," has been let for a term of years. The Conversation Room is now open to the use of the shareholders. There has been a marked increase in the number of shareholders availing themselves of the privileges of the Library generally, as is shown by the increase in the number of volumes (19,109) taken from the Library during the year. The Ladies' Reading Room has been also frequented more than heretofore.

The following is a condensed Statement of the Receipts and Expenditures during the year, ending March 31st, 1862:

Receipts from all sources ........................................... $5,384.64
Expenditures .......................................................... 5,317.68
    " for books and periodicals ................................. 1,240.91
Incidental expenses ................................................. 2,266.81
Salaries ............................................................... 1,809.96
Balance in the Treasurer's hands ............................... 72.86
Amount of Dues remaining unpaid ................................ 668.00
The number of new Members elected during the year was four.
Number of volumes added to the Library by purchase: 505
" " " donation: 126
" " " Binding of Magazines, Reviews, etc., from the Reading Room: 171
Total number: 802
Number of Pamphlets added: 163
